provide funds for the maintenance of counties and the other to amend the County Act so as to cut out county assessors and leave the collection of taxes in the hands of the Territory. Read first time.

Senate Bill 114, repealing certain sections of the Revised Laws relating to the same matter as 113.

Senate Bill 117, allowing visitors at Leper Settlement at all times, came up on third reading. This bill stops junkets, no more than 50 permits can be issued at any one time.

House Bill 169, the horsehoers' bill, on third reading, was amended to reduce the license fee to $5 per year, and passed, McCandless voting against it.

SATURDAY, APRIL 15.

Action came on the Governor's veto of the Hilo High School bill, the bill passing over the veto by a vote of 14 to 1, Senator Dickey of Maui opposing the measure.

Senate Resolution No. 5, the joint resolution to give the Catholic church the right to hold lands, was read for the third time and passed without dissent.

Senate Bill 2, the local option bill, was next on third reading. The bill passed.

Other bills passed on third reading were:

Senate Bill 126, the Achi bill to make the new part of Oahu jail a prison for misdemeanants.

Senate Bill 135, to protect the public from automobiles, amended so that the automobile drivers or owners shall be compelled to pass an examination as to their fitness.

House Bill 94, providing for the widow's election of dower, passed, McCandless alone voting against it.

House Bill 146, for establishing fire departments at Wailuku and Kahului.

MONDAY, APRIL 17.

Senate Bill 139, the Dickey bill amendatory of the County Act, providing that the assessment and collection of taxes shall remain with the Territorial officials passed.

On third reading Senate Bill 138, the Dickey bill, providing money for the maintenance of counties, was given to the Ways and Means Committee for correction.

Senate Bill 122, the emergency appropriation bill, came up on third reading, and Paris moved an amendment appropriating $1000 for the care of indigent sick of the Territory. The amendment was accepted.

Various other amendments were added, among which was one by Achi providing an appropriation of $1300 to pay expenses of the late County of West Hawaii.

Senate Bill 134, to repeal certain sections of the penal code, passed third reading, only McCandless voting against it.

House bill 180, raising the legal rate from 6 per cent to 8 per cent, was killed on second reading by the adoption of the committee report.

HOUSE.

TUESDAY, APRIL 11.

Early in the afternoon Holstein's bill to provide for the issuance of certificates of Hawaiian birth passed third reading.

Andrade's bill to give the court discretionary powers in the segregation and confinement of jurors in civil and criminal cases passed.

Fernandez was excused from voting on the ground that he did not understand the bill.

Andrade's bill to provide procedure for the division of real property among co-tenants was indefinitely postponed.

Harris's bill to amend and re-enact Section 2566 of the Revised Laws of Hawaii to exempt ordinary corporations from the necessity of filing annual statements of their affairs came up for third reading but no conclusion was reached on the matter.

The Governor's veto of House Bill 7, to provide a term of court at Waiohine, was overridden by a vote of 23 to 6.

Smith's bill to appropriate $15,000 for the erection of a hospital in North Kohala, passed third reading by 26 to 2. Waterhouse and Kaniho were opposed.

Waterhouse introduced a resolution for the appropriation out of the loan fund of $15,000 for the acquisition and establishment of a wireless telegraph system between the Islands.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 12.

Senator Dickey's osteopathy bill passed third reading after being explained to the Hawaiian members that in translating "osteopathy" as "lomilomi" the translators were at fault.

Harris's bill respecting relief of private corporations from the necessity of filing annual statements of their affairs with the Treasurer, came up for third reading. The bill was deferred until Monday on Harris's motion.

The Military Committee reported on the petition from Hilo asking for a sum for the aid, support and maintenance of the Hilo band. It recommended the consideration of the petition with the appropriation bill.

The Governor's veto of Senate Bill 39, relating to marks on bottles, cases and packages, was sustained, as was the veto of Senate Bill 57, relating to the trespass of animals.

THURSDAY, APRIL 13.

The Governor's veto of the County Bill came up for consideration. Aylett made a strong speech in which he asked how long the people were going to stand being ruled with an iron hand by one man. It was time for the people to assert themselves and show the Governor that government is for the people and by the people.

The previous question, moved by Cox, prevailed and Coelho closed the debate.

Smith, of Hilo, was absent when the veto was called and the House was kept waiting while a search was being made for him.

The motion to override the veto passed by 27 to 3. The three were Kaniho, Pali and Pulaa.

The Governor vetoed Senate Bill 57, relating to estrays, on the ground that the provision making trespass by animals on government land not fenced, practically legalized the grazing of animals on government lands.

FRIDAY, APRIL 14.

The Governor sent in two more vetoes, one of House Bill No. 103, increasing the pay of jurors from $2.00 to $2.50 a day, and of Senate Bill 23, providing for a high school for Hilo. Action on both vetoes was deferred.

The following passed third reading:

The House concurred in the Senate's amendments to the House Bill on leprosy.

Senate Bill 74, relating to the appointment and duties of prison inspectors, passed third reading.

SATURDAY, APRIL 15.

Saturday was a short session. The attendance was small and no matters of importance coming up.

The Public Expenditures Committee reported unfavorably on the resolution reducing the price of the Revised Laws from $10 to $5. It is stated that the cost of the book to the government is $7.96.

The Education Committee reported unfavorably on the bill to
